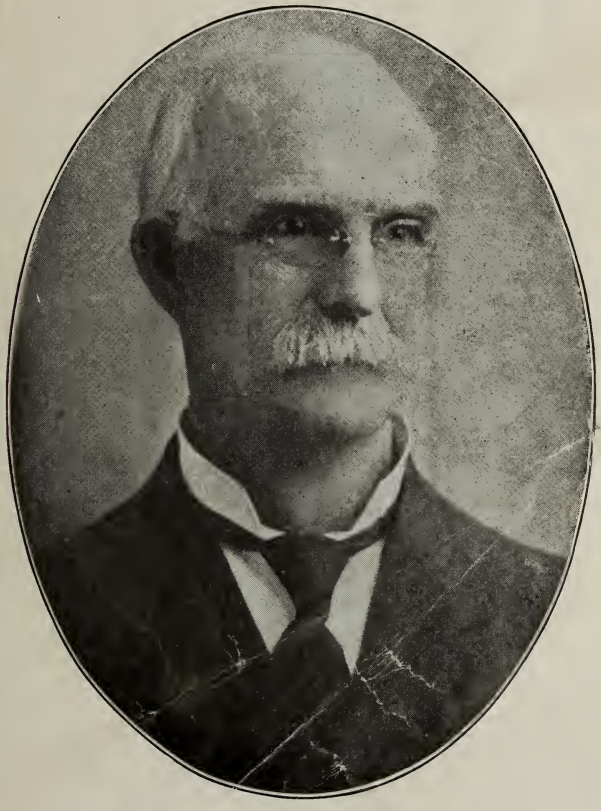
McMinnville College Bulletin

VOL. X. JUNE, 1913. NO. 3.

Published quarterly by McMinnville College and entered March 2, 1904, at McMinnville, Oregon, as second-class matter under Act of Congress of July 16, 1894.



Prof. Emanuel Northup, A. M.

Professor Northup has completed twenty-five full years of service with McMinnville College. His work began in the Fall of 1888, and the quarter-centennial was duly celebrated during the Commencement exercises of this month. He has rendered an invaluable service to the institution, commanded the respect and admiration of his fellow-citizens and greatly endeared himself to Faculty, Alumni, students and friends of McMinnville College. While beyond the so-called "dead line," he has not yet reached it, and gives promise of yet rendering his best service to the College he has learned to love.

Items of Interest

McMinnville College differs from other institutions only in that the time and energy usually given to practices and habits that waste and deteriorate are in McMinnville College given to the things that are worth while. With one exception every student left the College for the vacation a professed follower of the Master. Fourteen seem to have clearly defined purpose with reference to the ministry, and nineteen are as definitely committed to work on the foreign field.

But two changes will be made in the Faculty for the coming year, one occasioned by the resignation of Miss Ellen M. Hassenger who has served acceptably as teacher of stenography for four full years. As her successor Miss Ida May Pope was elected. Miss Pope is a graduate of Stevens College and of our own Commercial Department. She taught stenography two years preceding the coming of Miss Hassenger, and has had one year of special work in Oberlin University since leaving us.

The other change is occasioned by a leave of absence granted to Professor Olof Larsell in order to pursue his studies in the East. He will spend the next two summers in the University of Chicago and the intervening college year at the Northwestern University at Evanston, Illinois. A good substitute will be secured during this interim.

Total attendance reached 195, distributed as follows: College, 50; preparatory, 57; unclassified in these two departments, 17; commercial, 32, and conservatory 82. Geographical distribution as follows: Oregon, 135; Washington, 29; California, 6; Idaho, 5; Montana, 4; Canada, 4; China, 3; Philippine Islands, 2; Colorado, 2; and one each from Wisconsin, Nevada, District of Columbia, Alaska and Japan.

McMinnville College has an unusually large percentage of students from beyond the state in which it is located. Of its college and preparatory students, forty-eight per cent came from outside Oregon, while fifteen per cent of Pacific University's, eight per cent of the University of Oregon's, and two and one-half per cent of Reed College's came from outside Oregon. Redlands University in California gets ten per cent and Denison University, twenty-seven per cent from outside their own states.

The enlarged quarters of the Dining Club accommodated more than double the number of previous years.The board and management were satisfactory to all concerned. Monthly statements of receipts and disbursements are presented to the Executive Committee. The monthly receipts have averaged about $500, and the cost per week for each student has been about $2.50.

Professor F. G. Boughton who spent last Summer in the field as Student Secretary, will spend two months in similar work this Summer. The prospect for students next Fall is most encouraging.

Mr. Raymond B. Culver was elected as assistant to Mrs. C. C. Potter in the department of voice. Mr. Culver graduated from this department in 1910, and is now a Senior in the College department.

Professor E. B. VanOsdel was elected Director of Athletics, and two scholarships were voted to provide for two students assistants in carrying out the new plans whereby physical exercise will be required of every student in the institutions during the coming year.

Degrees Conferred in June, 1913

The following degrees were granted: Bachelor of Arts, (Standard Course) Margaret Larue Campbell, Wendell L. Miller and Anna Elizabeth Foster; (Old Course) Everett S. Burkett, Burchard A. Hylton and Willard LeRoy Hayes. Bachelor of Science, (Standard Course) Francis Gordon Pettit; Bachelor of Philosophy, (Standard Course) John Frederick Mason; Bachelor of Pedagogy, Veda Ethlyn Rhodes and Margaret Larue Campbell; Bachelor of Music, (Voice) Paul Blackstone and Eleanor L. Stockton; (Piano) E. Mabel Boydston and Olga O. Norgren.

For the completion of the Amanuensis Course certificates were granted to Beth Myrtle Elwell, Libbie E. Marley, Ethel Ranney, Florence Ruby Smith and Willda Imogene Weeks. For the completion of the preparatory course, (full sixteen units) diplomas were awarded to George Jay Galvin and Evelyn Gladys Ballard.

The Trustees voted that the degree of Bachelor of Pedagogy would not be granted on the present basis after the year 1913-1914; also that a new basis should be worked out by the Faculty for the granting of the degree of Bachelor of Music, whereby more work will be required both in the conservatory and in the college.

Education Board of Northern Baptist Convention

This Board held a very important meeting in Detroit, Michigan, in May. It is composed of some of the strongest leaders in the Baptist denomination, who are taking up their task with evident purpose to accomplish something worth while in the line of Christian education.

The Secretary, Dr. Frank W. Padelford, had visited our colleges and many of the State Universities west of Chicago and presented a most illuminating report. His inquiry followed these three lines: (1) Are Baptists as a denomination educating their children; (2) Are Baptist children receiving the right kind of an education; (3) Are we as Baptists making our proper contribution to the educational work of the nation?

The report showed very clearly that as Baptists we have not been emphasizing the importance of education as strongly as we should. For example letters were sent to every college and university in the thirty-four states of the North, asking the registrars to furnish the denominational preferences of their students so far as they could be ascertained. Returns from 220 institutions in these states indicated that "the Congregationalists have one student in college for every sixty-nine members of their churches; the Presbyterians have one student for every seventy members; the Methodists have one student for every 143 members; while Baptists have one student for every 176 members."

Again, in number of students in our institutions, we are second only to the Methodists; in value of plants and endowment we are second only to the Congregationalists, but deducting the figures for Chicago,—which received its funds largely from one source, and Vassar, whose only relation to the denomination is that it was founded by a Baptist,—Baptists stand fourth in the list of leading denominations, Congregationalists, Methodists and Presbyterians being ahead of us.

Yet again, Baptists were pioneers in the work of placing trained men to care for our students in state universities, but today we have only three such workers while the Presbyterians, for example, have eighteen men giving all their time and twenty-two other men giving part time to students.

The Education Board purposes to remedy these defects as rapidly as possible, to educate Baptists concerning the importance of higher education, to build up our own denominational colleges and to care for our Baptist young people in the great university centers. This is a great task and a task well worth while.

Two Magnificent Offers

For several years McMinnville College has been looking forward to a campaign for a larger endowment beginning September, 1913. Last October Mr. James J. Hill of St. Paul, Minnesota, gave the initial impulse to this movement by offering to give the College $50,000 when that amount would complete a $300,000 endowment fund. The College already has $50,000 of permanent endowment to count on this fund, which was taken into account by Mr. Hill in making his generous offer.

At the meeting of the Education Board of the Northern Baptist Convention, held in Detroit, Michigan, last month, this movement received another splendid impulse when the Board voted to duplicate Mr. Hill's offer and in addition to raise $5,000 annually toward the current expenses of the College during the two years of this campaign.

These two offers have put new life and hope into all the friends of the institution, bringing the movement as they do, within the bounds of what seems possible of accomplishment. Mr. Hill and the members of the Education Board are entitled to the heartfelt gratitude of all the friends of McMinnville College and Christian education.

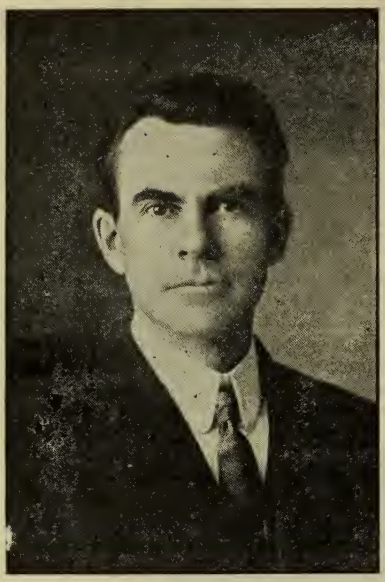
The Endowment Campaign

The Endowment Campaign will open about the middle of October as announced in the July Bulletin. We again present the picture of Dr. Myron W. Haynes in order that all who receive the Bulletin may recognize him when they see him. He is now giving two months' service to Franklin College in order to complete his work there to his own satisfaction, he receiving no remuneration therefor. He will arrive in Oregon in time to attend the meeting of the Oregon Baptist State Convention at Grants Pass, where he will speak on Wednesday evening, October 21st.

How Dr. Haynes will set about this important task no one knows but himself. He knows how and where he will begin. His experience with such campaigns is such that all the friends of McMinnville College may safely trust him to work it out to the best interests of the institution. Let us all co-operate with him in every possible way and pray for him without ceasing. The future of McMinnville College depends upon this campaign.



Professor Boughton's Campaign.

For the third time Professor Fred G. Boughton has spent the Summer months canvassing the Northwest for students. He has done excellent work, making many friends for the College as well as for himself. To indicate how strenuously he filled in the few weeks at his disposal the following list is given of the towns and cities touched to a greater or less extent on his journey: In Washington:--Bingen, White Salmon, Lyle, Goldendale, Kennewick, Spokane, Liberty Lake, Oakesdale Palouse, Clarkston, Vancouver, Chehalis, Seattle, Burlington, Ferndale, Blaine, Bellingham, Wenatchee, Brewster, Wilson Creek, Harrington, Wilbur, Davenport, Hartline, Adrian, Snohomish, Everett, Marysville, Sumas, Lynden, Kelso, Tacoma. Burton, Pe Ell, Doty, Dryad, Raymond, South Bend, Sherlock, Hoquiam, Aberdeen, Cosmopolis, Montesano, Rochester, Elma, Cle Elum, North Yakima, Sunnyside, Ellensburg, Bremerton, Kent and Olympia. In Idado:--Harrison, Springston, Laclede, Sand Point, Moscow, Juliaetta, Stites, Kooskia and Lewiston. In Oregon:--Portland, Gladstone Park, Oregon City, The Dalles, Bend and McMinnville. In British Columbia,--Vancouver and Rossland.

Concerning this work Professor Boughton makes the following statements.

"Of course this list of seventy different towns does not correctly interpret the distribution of my time or labor. In many places a small fraction of a day was all that the occasion demanded. At the summer assembly at Liberty Lake it seemed wise to spend three days; at Burton, two visits of a few hours each had to suffice. In the large cities, several days apiece were necessary; and of course certain railroad centers had to be touched repeatedly, almost dozens of times.

Much new territory was visited in Northern Washington and Central Idaho. But great sections of our huge field, including prominent cities and thickly populated districts, have not been visited for two whole years ;and much of Oregon, Eastern Idaho and all of Montana have never been visited by any Student Secretary of the College. The ever-present problem is how to strike a golden mean between covering all the territory and doing constructive work in the sections that can be reached. The constructive work ought to be done by a permanent field officer. Multitudes of our churches would welcome a more exact knowledge of the institution, of which they are reading such good reports in The Pacific Baptist and the Bulletins mailed by the College from time to time. But my duty in the short summer vacation has seemed to be to conduct a lightning campaign among individuals, who apparently are partially disposed already to consider McMinnville for their college work.

As heretofore the results of these summer trips will appear more a year or two hence than immediately. I have no hesitancy in saying that the attitude of the Baptist people is more and more friendly to their own institution. They are finding out that QUALITY is worth more than BIGNESS when it comes to making men and women out of boys and girls.

Who could ask for a more loyal lot of parents and pastors and alumni and former students? It would take a book to describe all the courtesies and favors extended to me by all sorts of friends. Blessings on their heads."

"Coe for Congress"

McMinnville College is honored by the nomination of Professor Curtis P. Coe as candidate for Congress. Professor Coe has had charge of our departments of education and commerce since the Fall of 1908, and has manifested marked ability and a tremendous capacity for hard work. The Summer months were spent in making an extended canvass of the district which we hope he will have the privilege of representing at Washington D. C. It should be unnecessary in this Bulletin to state that his name will appear on the Prohibition ticket. For the past year Professor Coe. has been editor of The Pacific Patriot, the Prohibition organ of our State, in addition to his various labors at the College. Reports indicate that his canvass has made many friends for him. The Bulletin is glad to assure its readers that Professor Coe is worthy of their support. If elected he will give his district an efficient and disinterested service.

Professor Larsell Returns

After spending two Summers studying in the University of Chicago, and one college year in the Northwestern University at Evanston, Illinois, Professor Olof Larsell is again filling his place on the Faculty of McMinnville College. He is now within one year of his degree of Doctor of Philosophy, having already spent two Summers in the University of Washington. While East he received his degree of Master of Science from Northwestern University. Several attractive positions were opened up for him in the East, but his preference led him back to his Alma Mater. He has charge of our department of Biology.

The Great War in Europe will have some effect upon our Campaign. What it will be no one can tell. We believe the Lord is directing us in laying our plans and expect Him to guide us in their execution. He is able to open up for us doors of which we now know nothing.

Harold H. Hanscom, B. M.
Teacher of Piano

F. Jane Lawrence, B. M.
Teacher of Piano

The friends of McMinnville College are rejoicing in the return to our Conservatory of Music of Miss F. Jane Lawrence and Mr. Harold H. Hanscom. Miss Lawrence was a member of our Conservatory staff from 1907 to 1909. She received her early training in music in San Jose, California, and after successful experience in teaching in Pocatello, Idaho, graduated from our own Conservatory in the class of 1908. From McMinnville she went to Chicago where she studied in the American Conservatory and in one year was graduated from the collegiate or artist's course, her teacher being Professor Allan Spencer. Then for three years she taught piano in the Conservatory of Hardin College, Mexico, Missouri, with marked success, resigning with the expectation of taking a year of complete rest. The call to return to McMinnville College was strong enough to bring about a change in plans. Miss Lawrence is a thorough teacher, has a pleasing personality and will become a strong factor in the uplifting work of the College.

Mr. Hanscom is likewise not a stranger to McMinnville College. From 1909 to 1911 he was our Teacher of Art while pursuing his studies in the Conservatory. He graduated in piano with the class of 1911, and for two years taught piano in central Oregon. The year 1913-1914 he spent in Chicago studying piano under Mr. Rudolph Reuter of the Chicago Musical College, and composition under Mr. Felix Borowski, who is recognized as one of the most prominent critics and authorities in composition in the country. Mr. Hanscom will teach piano and theoretical branches of the Conservatory work.

These two, with Mrs. Potter, make our Conservatory stronger than ever.

The Fall opening has been such as to greatly encourage Trustees and Faculty. The total on September 28 has reached 192, which while not quite up to that of last year, is beyond all previous registrations. The new students as a whole have made a very good first impression. Everything points to a satisfactory year of hard work.

The opening address was delivered on the evening of Registration day by Mr. Marshall N. Dana of The Oregon Journal. His subject was "Blanks." In an unusual yet interesting manner he enforced the necessity of making the most thorough preparation for one's work in the world.

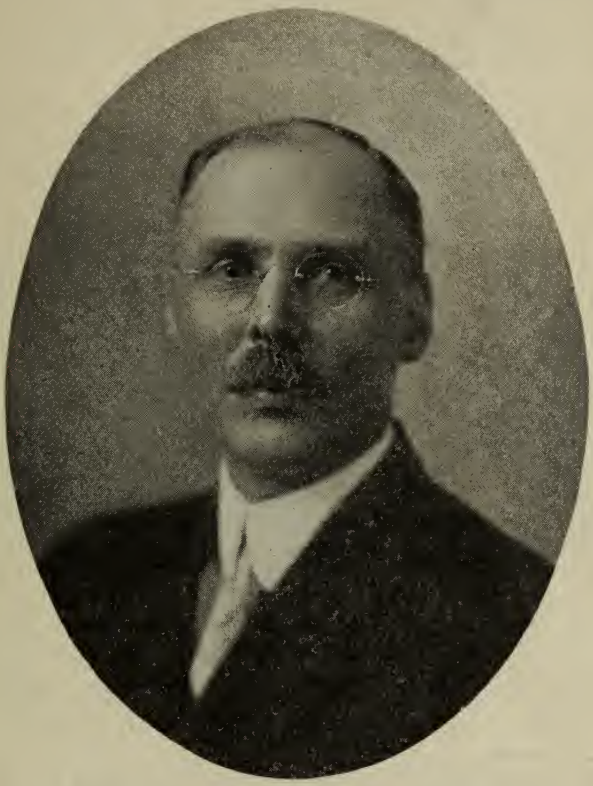
McMinnville College Bulletin

Vol, XII. DECEMBER, 1914 No. 1

Published quarterly by McMinnville College and entered March, 1904, at McMinnville, Oregon, as second-class matter under Act of Congress of July, 1894



REV. JOHN B. CHAMPION, A. M., B. D.

After more than a year of "watchful waiting" the First Baptist Church, McMinnville, extended a call to Rev. John B. Champion of the Roxborough Baptist Church, Philadelphia, Penn., who accepted and began his work on Sunday, December 20, 1914. Pastor Champion is a graduate of the University of New Brunswick and of Colgate Theological Seminary. He was Pastor of the Calvary Baptist Church, Brantford, Canada, for five years, and for the past four years has been with the Roxborough Church. He is the author of a book entitled "The Living Atonement," which has received most favorable comment. Upon leaving Philadelphia the Roxborough Church presented him with a purse of $500, which certainly indicates their love for and confidence in him. He has a wife and seven children, several of whom will become students in McMinnville College. He is a scholarly, clean-cut type of man who will add materially to the strength of our cause in McMinnville, Oregon and the Northwest.

THE FALL TERM

The Fall term closed on Wednesday noon, December 23. Taken as a whole the work and the spirit of it were satisfactory. The attendance reached 209, which is some less than for the same term in the preceding year. No illness on the part of either the Faculty or the students caused any interruption. The Christian Associations did an aggressive work as usual, having largely attended meetings on Wednesdays and of the Bible study classes. Dr. W. B. Hinson came as usual, tho illness prevented a regular visitation, much to our loss. Pastor A. N. Thompson of the Presbyterian church, was also a welcome visitor on several occasions. Other addresses were made by Dr. C. J. Smith, Candidate for Governor; Rev. Thomas Moody of the Congo; Mr. Virgil G. Hinshaw, National Committeeman of the Prohibition Party; Mrs. H. L. Boardman, wife of our former President; Dr. Albert Loughridge, Missionary from India; Miss Elizabeth Fox, of the Y. W. C. A.; and Dr. Myron W. Haynes. The athletic work in the gymnasium under Mr. C A. Bader has been the best we have ever offered, and a number of the young men have greatly profited by it. The basketball teams have had an entuhsiastic Fall campaign, the Freshman class winning the inter-class championship. The prospect for the intercollegiate pennant looks encouraging. Two recitals were held under the auspices of the Conservatory, which indicate that the work in this department is keeping pace with former years. Professor Frerichs has been active in his efforts to develop our Library and has succeeded in adding many valuable books. Less absences on the part of the students, and their presence almost without exception to the close of the working periods and their prompt return after holidays, have made possible better work on the part of both Professors and students, and much easier for the former. Our more than usual lack of funds with which to meet salaries and expenses constitutes the one marring feature of the whole term! There may be a special lesson in this situation, and if so we are prepared to receive it.

THE ENDOWMENT CAMPAIGN

Dr. Myron W. Haynes is sustaining his previous reputation as an "Endowment Campaigner." It is simply amazing that such results should be secured as he is accomplishing in such times as the present. Thus far he has visited Roseburg, Brownsville, Medford, Albany, Hillsboro, Lebanon and Eugene. He reports a gracious reception of himself and his messages on all these fields. The full total of results are not at hand, but during the month of November over $12,000 were pledged. Dr. Haynes is a master hand at such work and McMinnville College is fortunate in having his services. That he will succeed, no one who knows him and the situation doubts for a moment. The constant prayer made at College and church Dr. Haynes recognizes as an important aid in his work All the readers of the Bulletin are requested to join in thus remembering him and this important task.

A WORTHY RECORD

For one full year following the resignation of Dr. H. Wyse Jones, Professor J. Sherman Wallace supplied the pulpit of the McMinnville Baptist Church and acted as Pastor. It has been a great year, one of the best in the history of the church. At no previous time has the attendance been so large, especially at the mid-week prayer-meetings, which have ranged in numbers from 150 to 250 and even more. Eighty-five were received into membership, thirty-five of them being by baptism. This is sufficient to indicate the general excellence of the service rendered by our popular Professor of Bible and Public Speaking. It is another testimony to the strength of the Faculty of McMinnville College.

A HOME MISSION SUGGESTION

In Texas we have a well organized educational system. In one large section of this state, however, for years we neglected to locate a school, and thereby barely held our own, whereas in other parts of the state where we had schools our cause advanced rapidly. So noticeable was this that our State Convention leaders and workers a few years ago decided to locate a school in this neglected San Marco district. Since that time our churches have increased about twenty-five per cent in this district. The Baptists in Texas regard the establishment of this school one of the very best investments they have made from the State Convention point of view. A survey of the Conventions in the field of the Northern Baptist Convention will quickly reveal the fact that our greatest strength is in the fields round about our educational institutions. Dr. W. B. Pope of Indiana, testifies that funds never came so easily for their State Convention work as during the years when Dr. Myron W. Haynes was pushing the campaign for the endowment of Franklin College. Now that the College is made financially strong we may logically expect our Baptist churches in Indiana to make very significant gains.

ARE THESE MEN RIGHT?

"I think a young man who goes to a small college receives a better education than does he who goes to a large one."—Andrew Carnegie.

"I believe the American boy has a better chance for education, for making a true success of life, in a college of not more than three hundred students."—Elihu Root, Ex-Secretary of State.

"The difference between the large university and the small college is that in the large university the student goes thro more college, but in the small college more college goes thro the student."—Chief Justice of the State of Maine.

"The privately-owned colleges could not be spared from our educational system without great loss. Their fidelity to the 'inner life' makes them worthy of the highest praise and entitles them to more liberal financial support than they have ever received up to the present."—The Morning Oregonian.

"The life of the Christian Church is dependent upon the intelligence and consecration of its ministry. Without the Christian college there would soon be no ministry worth mentioning, no church worth serving.

A recent inquiry showed that out of 1844 students in our theological seminaries almost 1700 of them were graduates of or educated in Christian colleges."—President A. R. Taylor, James Milliken University.

"What is the Christian college that it should have an appeal to men of wealth, who are also men of wisdom? A college becomes Christian thro its atmosphere, its tone, its ideals. It exalts learning and enthrones Jesus Christ. It sets before itself an ideal of the highest culture, the truest relationships and a personal knowledge of Jesus Christ. The term Christian is not a term of limitation, but of perfection."---Bishop W. F. McDowell.

"The atmosphere in which a boy is educated counts for much. I am in no way untrue to state institutions when I say that in our day a boy might become a bachelor or a master in almost any one of the best of them and be as ignorant of the Bible, the moral and spiritual truth which it represents, and the fundamental principles of religion, their nature and value to society, as if he had been educated in a non-Christian country. Who is to supply this lack if not the Christian college?"---President Thompson, of the Ohio State University.

"There is something about a denominational college that always appeals to me. It is a character-builder. I believe in keeping the boy in the religious paths of his ancestors. Too many young people are sent to the non-sectarian school. No one is by to guide them, and they gather a great many ideas that lead them astray. In the denominational college they stay by the old precepts, and the foundations which were laid in the home are builded upon to the great benefit of the student."---James J. Hill, of the Great Northern Railroad.

Winter Term opens Tuesday, January 5, 1915, at 9:00 a. m.
